Crime in Ancient Greece

What a terrible dilemma! What was on the menu for Miss Musgroves tea last night?

Miss Musgrove became world's best chicken thief by stealing 3 marvellous chickens from Miss Pykes house yesterday. In front of a busy market crowd the cheekiest thief completed her most remarkable crime to establish herself as one of the greatest thieves of all time.

Following earlier victories involving cows, pigs and alpacas, Miss Musgrove inspired her friend to start selling stolen animals as it was cheaper than selling her own animals. The 3 chickens were added to her list of stolen animals.

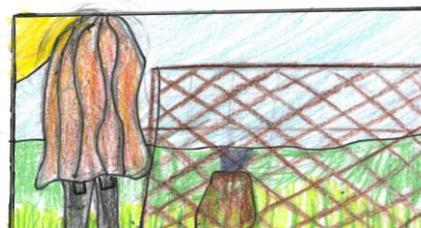

Afterwards, the reigning animal champion thief was understandably buoyant in her celebrations. "It is a brilliant feeling. It's been a long road to success. I'm no longer starving. It's great to be in the history books as one of the greatest. I'm proud of my smuggling skills," she told reporters.

Although other thieves have rustled more prized possessions than Miss Musgrove, no one else can match her skills.

What will the future bring? It was confirmed Miss Musgrove and her friend have been arrested and charged with several counts of theft. The judge has ruled they will be in prison for the next five years. Miss Musgrove will need to compensate Miss Pyke with a new coop, 3 chickens and apologise to all the animal owners on the farm. Mr Wathen, her friend, is still protesting his innocence.

"I'm so happy that she had to pay for it," called Miss Sumner excitedly. "I can't believe how stealthily she moved so that I didn't hear her," confirmed Miss Pyke.

Year 6 leavers take on each other in the first socially distanced Olympics

Year 6 confirmed their place in the history books as the youngest children to host a socially distanced Olympics. Miss Musgrove achieved an amazing gold medal in the discus event. In front of a deafening crowd, year 6 stood at the starting line ready to begin the muti-skills race (skipping, side stepping and hurdles). It was a tough race, but Miss Musgrove took gold again.

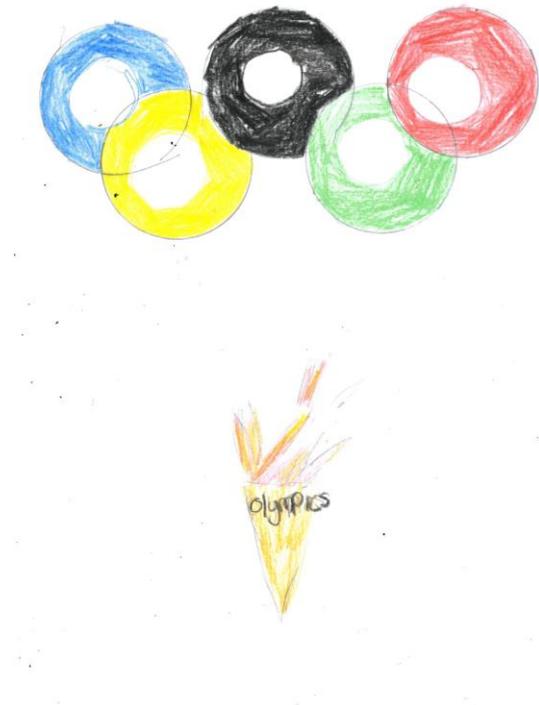

In the meantime, Miss Pyke managed to push Mrs France into competing in the long jump however another medal was soon added to the collection of Miss Musgrove, taking her total to 3 gold medals. Was anyone going to challenge this successful Olympian?

Several minutes later, Mr Wathen, who took gold in the remaining three events, matched her lead.

“I was amazed how far it went,” announced Miss Musgrove. It was reported that Miss Sumner cheated in the long jump because she used the wrong side of the track. However, the judging panel dismissed the allegations.

Afterwards, the year 6 celebrated with a medal ceremony that lasted into the afternoon.

Curly Caterpillar

Local family raises 3 caterpillars

Mrs Transwell reiterated her title as the most dramatic gardener. In front of her family she announced she had found a caterpillar!

Following earlier finds, she and her children made a splendid home for the new member of the family. She placed the caterpillar home in the window. The oldest child, Harry, named the insect Jimmy.

When it was warm, the family would take the creepy crawly outside. For three weeks they feed him a variety of vegetation until one day they woke up to discover he had formed a chrysalis. To their amazement he was in his cocoon for two further weeks.

Mrs Transwells family were extremely excited when one night, Jimmy emerged as a great big moth. However there was one problem – he couldn't fly!

Ellie suggested giving him sugar and water to build his energy. "Let him go, he'll be alright" she announced.

That evening, they released Jimmy onto the Titterstone, and then watched the beautiful fluttering moth disappear into the sunset.
